

A business should not be limited to the number of attempts it makes to win back Customers or when a business can contact an existing Customer. When the Prospect says no that is when the Company needs to back off. Conducting business ethically with little as possible Government involvement is key for our Capitalist society to continue to grow and thrive.